Burns' Supper is observed on 25 January every year in honour of the famous Scottish Bard, Robert Burns, whose life and works set precedence for many poets in Scotland and across the globe. Burns' Supper is marked with merriment and celebration, notable activities of this day include the preparation of haggis, a traditional Scottish dish, the reading of Burns poems, and the coming together of men and women from diverse backgrounds.

Join us this January as we celebrate Burns' Supper with Scottish Band, Coel an Aire, a five-piece traditional Scottish/Folk band based in Oban on the West Coast of Scotland, accompanied by a specially curated four-course Scottish Menu!

Since forming in 2010, the band have performed on Scottish festival stages including Oban Live, Tree Music Festival, Carradale Music Festival and Gig in the Goil in recent years.
